

Hey my strawberries I am so sorry for not posting for 2 weeks. I have just had a lot of things happen the last couple weeks like for example(this actually happened): Getting Cheated on because your bf thought you were gonna leave him:(but everything is fine atm tho! So I will start probably posting twice a day so the first post will be for the exact day and the following post will be for upcoming day. However, I am going to be on spring break from the 3rd of April to the 10th of April so during that time I will not be posting anything until I return to school which will be on Tuesday April 11th. I will not be posting after today because I need to straighten things out with my bf and make us strong again and kinda enjoy my last day with everyone before break. So with that being said I love you my strawberries 🍓 and I hope if your going on your spring break as well you have a great time from school. I hope you come back safe and sound. I also want to thank you all for 108 followers I never could have done it without you guys and I love and care so much and I just can't thank you all enough. To my future and current strawberries 🍓 I want you to know your special, your wanted, and to always believe in yourself. I love you all and this isn't the last of me I just need to get my life a bit back in check so this isn't bye forever this is just for now so goodbye my lovely strawberries 🍓 .