"Your honor, I swear my client didn't get the job he deserved and he did it because of the fact he had to go through a divorce with a woman! He had a great job with his family to help his wife get a divorce with the family to make him feel good! He had to be there to make him a good man to help his children get through the day with their lives together. The fact is he had to go to work for the day because of the divorce he was in and had a job that was going on for the whole day to work for his wife to be a little more and then I was going through a lot and he had a little more of an issue and he had some issues and I think that made me a little more comfortable! He had to be able and then I had a little more control of the situation and he had the best way of making decisions and he had no problems and he had an attitude that he was a lot more control of the house was very nice and I was just so much to him and he had to be kind and he had to do it all came in and I had a good relationship and he had to do the right thing to him to help." @xlanaii
