

TO

DAYS

POEM

The Journey of Learning

learning is like climbing a ladder; you can tumble off it if you miss a step, but eventually you will reach the top and understand all that you have been studying from steps one through ten. The key to opening the doors of the universe is mathematics. School is an emotional roller coaster. Applications to colleges are the key to one's future. And Teachers, Teachers plant the seeds of lifelong learning. Though they may seem to know everything, they actually don't. When the teachers were still babies just learning to crawl, they were students. But we are all equally stupid as humans. Our God and Savior or whoever you might praise that is teacher that guides us to the end, so as students we are all babies starting to crawl, but soon we shall walk.

Nylah.D