

Once upon a time, in hospital on the eighth floor, a baby was born “what should we name him Dear?” Said a lady, “we should name him Sin-U” a man said, “Sin-u, hm, I like that” the lady said while holding the child in her arms. ANYWAYS fast forward to now. Hey, My name is Sin-u, as I said earlier. Anyways I’m turning 16 on December 17, which means I only have one more day until my birthday. I grew up with a Asian family. What type of Asian I’m I? you may ask, well, I was born in South Korea, so I’m Korean, I literally hate being Asian because as soon after as my parents and I got out of the hospital when I was just a little Agi, we moved all the way to London, don’t get me wrong I love it here but… it’s just I’ve been getting teased in school since I’m from South Korea they say I’m might bomb their city and that I’m some sort of spy, it’s actually hilarious to hear them mistake me for a North Korean, anyways back to my 16 birthday, I’m so scared because you know it’s a birthday, and my parents literally invited the Nextdoor neighbor along with her two kids, my mom said “it’s because I have no friends and I should start getting out of my shell” and my dad said that “the neighbor’s daughter is a really kind person, and their son wants to study to be a teacher, plus that they are both they are kind of the same age as me, and I should try and get a girlfriend” my parents are looking forward for me to get to now them and try asking the neighbors daughter out. But I’m scared to tell them I’m actually… into Guys ever since I was a kid I’ve always fell for a boy I never fell for a girl. I don’t really know what that means, but I’ve seen the neighbors son kiss both, girls and boys here and there, I know that because one day when I was in the backyard I saw him kiss a girl through his window, and about a week later I saw him kiss a boy but the kiss was really intense so I’m guessing that their relationship is very strong, I don’t know to be honest I don’t want to assume things. Me personally, I’ve never been in a relationship, and I don’t think I will. since I’m super ugly, everyone says I’m a good looking guy and I should probably go out more, but I don’t think I am and if I do go out I’d probably get jumped by the guys that make fun of me at school for being Korean. Plus I think I might have a crush on the neighbors son, I don’t know how he looks like because when he is making out with his boyfriend, all I see is his boyfriend and not him, but his voice is deep and I’m into guys with deep voices they just sound so hot. Anyways that's enough for now I need to take a shower my mom is taking me to meet my neighbor soon,