

review

Section eight, six, seven, ten & eleven

1. Hamilton believed in a strong central government
2. the people who disliked and opposed the constitution were called anti-federalists
3. there are three branches of government in the United States
4. nine states were needed to ratify the constitution
5. the federalist papers were essays written to show support for the constitution
6. the first written framework of government was called "the articles of confederation"
7. Shays' rebellion: an event that proved the articles of confederation were not working
8. ratify means to formally approve something
9. the people that supported the constitution were called federalists
10. the last name of the father of the constitution was Madison
11. the New Jersey plan proposed a one house legislature with equal representation for each state
12. a democracy is government by the people; born in ancient Greece
13. the Virginia plan favored states with large populations
14. the great compromise created a house of representatives that awarded seats based on population and senate comprised of 2 senators per state
15. the last name of the president of the constitution was Washington
16. the republic was a system of government where people chose leaders to represent them; idea born in ancient Rome