

Hi Peeps! I have a very big update for you peeps! This is an update about my crush!
I found out a couple of things in the last few days about my crush!

What I found out

I found out that he might be dealing with a lot of family problems right now and that was he wasn't here last week

If he is dealing with family problems then I don't want to make his life worse by telling I like him! I want to be there support him right now as a friend as a crush! Peeps it is worse than I thought he wants to be alone. I have been thinking I really don't like him anymore but I like him as a friend and that is what he needs right now a friend! Thanks for all the support peeps!

I don't know if he is dealing with family problems or anything but either way he knows he can talk to me about anything and he says he would talk to me when he is ready!

I have made the decision to not like him anymore and just be his friend!