

happy valentines day! ♥

I don't have a valentine this year, so I wanted to give a message to all of you amazing people a message for if you don't have anyone on valentines day.

I have been single my whole life, and I want y'all to know that God has a plan for you. Whether that is having someone come into your life or if He uses your singleness for the better, I encourage you to pray and trust that He loves you more than any human being ever will. Love you guys ♥