

Friend: Hey do you have any bags?

Me: The only bags I own are the ones under my eyes, which are specifically designed to carry the burden of my existence.

Friend: You literally could have just said no.