

There are more problematic people who I didn't even dare to hint at for a long time

This is a unique situation compared to others and I fear it isn't my place to say anything

I've been going back and forth to do or to not do something for about over a month now