

Love

Observe is a black female cat that had her head cut off by a falling glass pane. Now walking earth to "observe" the next person to meet there untimely demise.

Any glass object be mirror, window, glass pots or light bulbs her true head from when she was living will reflect off the glass surface. When not in front of glass her head is replaced by the shattered glass pane that caused her death.

