

Spooky story!!!

Once there was a traveler and her dream was to travel the world. Up until one night when the moon was at its brightest she was driving home and boom the car zoomed off the road in to these real scary woods. She looks left and right, forward and backwards but all she sees is woods. She steps out of the car and starts walking seeing if there is any road or house or anything. She finally comes across this house but not exactly the one she wanted to find. It was a large abandoned one. Somehow the thought of being in the deep dark woods left her head all she wanted to know is what is in that house. As the door slowly creaked open a howl came from the back. It reminded her of her little dog. He used to howl every time she came home. Except this howl was so much bigger and louder. Why is all she could think of in her head. Why did this have to happen. The thought repeated until she realized it wouldn't help her situation and she needed to focus on getting out of there. She ran for the door and it flew shut. She pulled and pulled but it was stuck. She fell on the floor and bursted into tears. There was nothing to do at this point. There was a big something out there and she was stuck in a abandoned house. She heard foot steps outside and in the window got a glance of its face. It was a scruffy dog looking thing with giant eyes. She got up and shoved the door again, then again but it still wouldn't budge. The foot steps of the big creature sent shivers down her spine. They got louder as if they were getting closer and closer to her. She runs to a dusty old table and hides under it. The footsteps stops suddenly every thing went blank. And then bang the door shoots open and a giant figure is in the door. Why was the thought that one again filled her head. It slowly walking in and the girl held her mouth shut hoping the thing won't come near her. It comes from behind and grabs her by her shirt collar. Getting a closer look she realizes it is a werewolf. She bursts out in to tears again but the water would just stand there in confusion. He opens his mouth and nothing comes out. He starts thinking again trying to come up with a way to explain that he won't eat her. He opens his mouth again but this time with words he says I am not wanting to hurt you in a deep voice. I want to help you get out of this place. Please trust me on this. The girl says how am I supposed to do that your a big monster. Please he says again. Ok well what's your plan on getting out of here. It's easy we walk out the front door. Oh the girl bursts out into laughing. They walk out the door and he helps her find her car. She gladly gets in her car and drives home.

