

I have been posting this year on my school iPad and, like most of you, school will be ending for me soon. So this week will be my final week on here before next school year starts.

*also I will post the rest of the improv story after my summer vacation