

A young teenage boy is walking home from school at night. The bus was late so he stood outside for some time. Then it dropped him off because the taxi driver had some urgent business. His wife is going into menopause. So he drops off the main character 2 miles from his house. Now he has to walk. The main character walks next to the woods. The tall trees hurtling above him. There's a robo he passes but he stops him from continuing further. He begs for money. The teen gives him $10. The robo says he has a gift for him. He walks into the woods telling the teen to come. O/c he says that's sus and all but he goes anyway. Because even if the old man tries anything she can outrun him. That's what he said to the old man. The old man laughed and said not to worry. They proceed into the woods. The old man says that he has to show the teen something. He takes off his cloak and shows that he's a being beyond everything. He rushes to the boy and . Next scene missing poster. Next after that we see him being dragged. A trail of blood follows after.
