

Hello my lovely followers :)

I'm posting this note to give you a heartfelt thanks for all the love and appreciation you have given me for the two years I've been on this app. I'm also here to tell you that I am quitting. I am so sorry, it's not you guys, it's school. I have recently been informed that the Notability Gallery has been restricted on the school iPads. You might be wondering how I've been posting, and it is because of my gmail account. The gmail account I up to the gallery with was deleted a year ago, Notability still allowed me to post and comment, but I was not able to receive emails. The glitch allowed the Notability gallery to be unrestricted by the school. At the end of this school year, my iPad will be wiped, therefore forcefully removing my Notability account. If the new iPad doesn't have the Notability gallery restricted, I will return. If I do return it will be in Autumn. When I have returned I will post multiple notes on the account with the hashtag: #crystalmoon

Search the hashtag once Autumn comes, if I am there, my notes will come up. I will be posting and commenting still, but I wanted to warn you guys.

Love, @crystalwolf
