Part 1: Awakening

"It was a blur. I don't know how I got here, or where I am. It's dark here. This isn't Earth... where am I?"

That's all I could think of.
I'm Sage. Your average high school teenage geek. My life is mostly pretty ordinary. Well, not anymore. Not after yesterday. Now.. my life might be changed forever.

I fell yesterday. I fell into a pit. Not even sure why or how, I just remember falling. It must've been a pretty deep pit because now I've got a bruise on my head, I can't remember much, and I'm in what seems to be a different dimension. I can't even see where I fell from.. there's no passage or anything someone could fall through if I look up. I might have travelled into another dimension or something.

That sounds so dumb... I can't have possibly done that. There's absolutely no way any human could ever travel through dimension.. According to science that's not possible.... Right?

Anyways..
This place is really dark, everything is gray. Even the trees and plants are gray... The only distinctly colored thing here is a bright white pathway. I can't see what it leads to. I'm not sure if I want to follow it's path... I'd rather find help near this place's "entrance" thingy than be dumb and somehow get lost here. I would pull out my phone and call the cops or somethin,.. • ○ ○ ○ there's no cell because a weird static shows up whenever I try to do something cellular...?
