

Guys, I need to vent a little. There's this friend of mine that is really mad at me and idk what to do. She doesn't talk to me at all and every time I join into one of the conversations that I'm apart of, she just glares at me. She's friends with a lot of my friends and I just don't know how to fix this. What do y'all think I should do? I want to be there for her but she makes it nearly impossible. I really need help. Tell me what I should do in the comments