Guys, unfortunately it has come to this. Notability has become a platform that, not only me, but many other people no longer believe in or trust. It will take a LOT of time for it to once again become the peaceful place it once was. Because of this, I will only be following people I really, honestly, and truly trust. This is because my notes have been getting flagged, and I know for a fact that one of my UN-loyal followers is the culprit. Please do not take it personally if I unfollow you, it just means we don't have a close bond like I do with other users.

Love yours truly,