

It makes me feel so sad when people trace or steal art. It makes me think about how this person hated their own art so much, that they decided to steal or trace someone else's to feel better. Like, either that, or the person is just doing rage bait. And I'm not saying it's okay to trace or anything, but I just feel sad that those people are unhappy with their art. My advice is to keep going! Don't trace just because you think your art is bad, just keep on practicing . And if you do trace to try and advance, thats actually totally fine, just don't claim it as your own! :) keep going friends. Art is so beautiful, whether you're a beginner or not. It might seem ugly to you, or even to other people, but art is amazing. Keep trying, and practicing, and you'll get better, even if it's a slow process. Everyone starts somewhere, and who knows? Maybe one day you'll be famous.