

This is Hand Man

Well he's not a superhero per say... but he still somehow manages to do the world good.

Hand Man's mom is the world hated supervillain, Miss Mary. However, she was mostly preoccupied with being a supervillain and so she wasn't much on a mom.

After a plan of hers to build a giant death-mech fell through, she came to the conclusion that her little tumor could be of some use. She took the hand off the mechs remains and turned it into a battle suit. She figured that he'll provide an ample distraction in the event the government finds her lair.

Each finger is supposed to have a different power, but more often then not they aren't working. The thumb is a heat-pad, pointer is electric, middle radioactive, ring is hard, pinky is useless.

When Hand Man was around 12, the government raided his moms lair. Contrary to her plans, Hand Man was the one who ended up escaping. Ever since he's been traveling across North America trying to somehow get the approval and recognition his mom didn't give him. Well his intentions may not be heroic, it's not doubt that he's help numerous communities through odd & strange problems.

