Dear Smoochie-poo,

When I kiss you my heart flutters like a butterfly. My foot pops up and I feel thankful to have you as a boyfriend. Every second I can't be with you it feels like my heart is being ripped from my chest. Love me forever and be mine.

Yours Dearest,

Handwriting practice lines for the 'This' prompt.

As I was running from Farquard I saw something. "What is that," I murmured to myself. I moved closer, wondering what it was. It turned, I followed it. "What!" I whispered. I was a Unicorn! I started to back away, but it seemed to call me in closer. I slowly walked towards it. The sun seemed to spotlight it. I heard voices. They were coming! I frantically looked around. "Elnor" what was that "Elnor," a voice in my head seemed to be calling my name. I suddenly realized it was the unicorn. In all its glory it wanted me to ride it. I jumped on its back. We ran! I realized she was also in danger. If farquard caught her he would harness her powers in a evil way.

Yes, students should. It would give the students a chance to have a say in their teacher. This might increase the participation and number of students. Recent studies show multiple kids are leaving PCA because of teachers. Students would also have a chance to learn how to deal with a teacher.

What has been one of the biggest mistakes you ever made?

What has been one of the best decisions that you have ever made?

Blank lined writing area for the 'This' prompt.

When I decided to follow Christ. This decision is the best because it started my relationship with God, brought me closer to Christ, and is currently making me more like him. The first reason this is the best decision is it started my relationship with Christ. Without this relationship I would be dirty, and this makes us new. The second reason this is the best decision is it brought me closer to Christ. The third reason is it makes me more like him every day. This gives me a better attitude. As you can see this is my next decision.
