

CH.3

We're all friends here!

As me, my mom and Headmistress Iris kept on walking, we finally reached a hallway with a door and gold lined with red sign on it saying, "Girls dorms." I had thought that it would be normal school, but it's a boarding school... Great. No friends, and it's not like I had a bunch.. No wifi. I basically was trapped in jail with boys and girls. My mom could basically read my mind, as she whispered in my ear, "Don't worry. Your dad went to this school and you are just here so they can keep you safe and besides, you didn't like the school before this one did you now?" I smile back at her and think, I've been hearing that a lot lately, but she's right. Anyways, at the entrance of the dorms my mom hugged my and planted two kisses on my cheek. I tried to gently pull away, but that was no use. Then my mom said a couple of mushy words like, I'll miss you sooo much! or make sure to call every day! I mean, it's not like I was going to die or anything, right?

To be continued!

@heywhassup

Hope you like it!

