One of the farm buildings you can have on your farm is the barn (you can learn here how to get a coop in Stardew Valley). The barn initially houses only cows, but it can be upgraded to unlock other animals like goats and pigs.

To get a goat on your farm, you'll have to own a Big Barn that has less than eight animals inside. If that's your case, then simply go to Marnie's Ranch and purchase one goat for 4,000g; a little goat will be sent to your farm, where it'll grow after five nights have passed.

Unfortunately, building a friendship with Krobus doesn't come with the same kind of content as a regular romance in Stardew Valley would. However, players can still get two different heart events with him: one at three hearts where he sends a crafting recipe in the mail and a short, sweet scene at fourteen hearts.

One Stardrop can be obtained from each of the following sources:
