

My preppy Bakugo has gotten quarantined, my new oc has gotten quarantined, my demon slayer stickers hav gotten quarantined, my funny doodles have gotten quarantined, my fan art of ur guys is ocs have gotten quarantined, and my love jar trend was quarantined. I am currently very angry and confused, and so are you guys. Notability said that if enough users complain about a specific issue, they will at least investigate the issue, because there is a major issue. Why would I want to use an app that won't let me post my stuff? Nothing is wrong with my posts! I always make sure they are appropriate and non offensive but still!? The only reason I'm not leaving is because it's fun to talk to people on here and you guys are really sweet and considerate and funny. But there's another issue, I can't always have chats because their is a commenting limit. Like what!? I just ran out of comments today and now I can't respond. Like idk what to do
