

So my parents found out I'm gay (again because they thought i was converted back) and atheist (which is new lol) and uhm they're gonna have multiple long talks with me and i decided that this time i am going to stay strong and not let them make me feel guilty for who i am. I will not let them make me cry, they don't deserve my tears. I know they say they love me but I'm sure they'd rather me have died a year ago than be atheist now. I honestly should probably be going crazy but i think I'm just in shock. So uhh yeah sorry everyone