

Welcome to Barcelona, Spain!

I hate how pushy the vendors are in these touristy places

Home of:

- too much tomato bread (it's good but not with every single meal)
- A nice beach which I "borrowed" some rocks from
- La Sagrada Familia
- A failed rich neighborhood stuffed with amazing architecture
- Pushy vendors
- Gaudi architecture

Just gonna say. Everybody was a lot more athletic in Europe...

sand imported from the Sahara during the Barcelona Olympic Games

Gaudi was an architect who was ran over by a tram. His style was very organic and is all over Barcelona narrow, busy streets →

The natural lighting was impossibly incredible!

Sagrada Familia

a really fancy church

Was totally covered in statues

Outside

Inside