

your bones during pliés

What's cracalackin

When another team that your studio hates wishes you good luck before a competition

Optimist:
The glass is half full

Pessimist:
The glass is half empty

Dancer:
I'm dying. I need water. Water. Break. Please.

"When the teacher tells me to stop staring at myself in the mirror"

*le me, innocently pirouetting

Starts to fall...

Strikes dramatic pose

Werk.

dancer brain anatomy

When you're in the middle of grand allegro and you have a mental breakdown, want to cry and you're pretty sure you broke your hip

Doctor: It's just tendonitis

Google:

When you're about to do a single pirouette but then the teacher starts walking towards you

Non-dancer: Dance is not a sport

