

I was talking to my friend about a sleepover she's having in a few days and my other friend (who wasn't invited) was listening to our conversation. Uninvited friend got mad and the three of us had a huge argument. None of us r talking to each other and the sleepover has been cancelled but I don't want us to stop being friends. Any advice?