

One day I went to the water park with my family. Me and my little sister went to the wave pool. We went to the 3.10 ft area because we thought the wave weren't going to be high, but the all of a sudden the waves are a foot tall meaning my face was fully in the water. Then I think of my little sister and how she is shorter and how I'm almost drowning so she is probably drowning I go over to her and pick up and take her to the 2 ft area. That is the time me and my sister almost drowned.
