

I know that it's not my place to be talking about any of this. As a previous fan of Wilbur Soot (regretfully so) I'm genuinely disgusted at what he did and if anyone tries defending him, unfollow me right now. I am making this post purely to spread awareness and to support Shelby (Shubble). I'm not gonna go in full detail on what happened. If you want to know the full story, watch Shelby's stream.

Basically Shelby was previously in an abusive relationship with Wilbur. I think it was yesterday that she came out with these allegations. Although she never directly said it was him, many people had suspicions it was Wilbur. Those suspicions were confirmed as she was followed up today with an "apology" by Wilbur. This "apology" was so fvck!ng disgusting I can't believe he even wasted his time writing it. Not once does he ever actually apologize for the d0mest!c abuse he inflicted onto Shelby and instead tries to defend his own actions. Even other streamers like Tubbo and Ranboo, who used to be friends with Wilbur, are giving all their support to Shelby and I'm 1000 percent with them. Yet some fans of Wilbur are still trying to justify his poor excuse of an apology? Just to be clear, I read it and not ONCE did he ever say "sorry" or anything remotely close to that. Wilbur fans really need to wake tf up. I'll admit it was hard for me to believe it at first, but at the same time these are twitch streamers. They're strangers. People really shouldn't even be idolizing them. Wilbur fvck3d up big time and needs to be held accountable. This behavior is not okay, especially coming from someone who has a large fanbase of young & impressionable children like I was when I watched his streams.

TL;DR, I wish all the best for Shelby and I really hope she's alright. Stop idolizing strangers and start supporting victims.
