

Antonio the egg child is chronically sorry for every little thing he does wrong.

Antonio the egg child overthinks the smallest decisions, and regrets his actions later.

Antonio the egg child tries to cling to things that are slipping away - probably because he doesn't have hands, because he is an egg.

Antonio the egg child often feels ignored, yet he doesn't want to have too much attention either.

Antonio the egg child distracts himself from his problems by surrounding himself with superficial things he enjoys, instead of actually addressing the issues.

Antonio the egg child makes yolks, but nobody ever laughs - they often don't even hear him.

