

Ok guys, so in my last post "Friendship Breakup Advice" I slightly mentioned that I'm going through a breakup of my own, but I didn't explain much, so here is the whole explanation. So one of my friends code name Harper, she is believing another girl code name Mya, and "Mya" is telling "Harper" that I am talking bad abt her behind her back. Fun fact, "Harper" is actually my cousin so we have been close our whole lives, but now we aren't close and we aren't best friends. It's sorta the relationship where its like that cousin that well ur related to so u sorta have to be around them but you aren't close with them. That is our little situation if that makes sense. But "Mya" has lied, and hurt "Harper" rly bad in the past, so it really hurts to know that my best friend ever, and blood relative doesn't believe me. Ik that some ppl are telling me that i need to just stop thinking of them, but we've done everything together for our whole lives so this is just hard. I can't stop crying myself to sleep every night, and its just miserable. This just proves that it is true that friend drama will be ur whole life. This stupidity is smth that would happen in middle school. Guys if ur a girl, u will have drama ur whole life no matter what, even when ur an adult. So this is the long story short version. Well just send prayers my way that i will handle and present myself the right way with these girls and that things will hopefully get better. Well anyways, thanks for reading this whole mess and thank you for helping me get through this.

TayTay loves you- Taylor Hart (@tessdarby21) 