Bingo is done! Now time for... (I know I said I would wait but here's) a sneak peak to THHS:

"SANVI! GET YOUR BUTT DOWN HERE OR YOU'RE GOING TO BE LATE FOR SCHOOL!" Mother yelled from downstairs. I drag myself out of bed. My dog, (you guys choose the name), playfully barks, so I pet her. I then look at the time and rush downstairs. I brush my teeth, put on my clothes, and double check that I have everything in my backpack.

Mother then hands me a plate of pancakes. I grab the plate and run to the deck, carefully so I don't drop any pancakes. I sit down and watch as the sun slowly rises over the trees nearby. I scarf down the pancakes and put my plate in the dishwasher.

"Come on, come on, you have to rush to the bus stop!" Mother says as she opens the door. I put on a jacket and my backpack and grab my cell phone. I then grab my lunchbox and say bye to Mother before I leave the door. I walk to my best friend, Autumn's, house. I wait outside her front door. She comes out as soon as she sees me from outside.

"Hey Sanvi, you ready to be a freshman in high school?" asks Autumn.

"Not really, but it had to happen at some point. Let's go," I say as we rush to the bus stop. The bus stop has only a few 10th graders and at least 10 11th graders. After almost an eternity, the bus arrives. The bus has assigned seats, but luckily, Autumn's and mine are across from one another. My seat has only me in it, while Autumn's has our friend, Spring, in it too.

By the time we arrive at school, the bell is about to ring. We got our schedules online, so all we had to do was wait for the bell and go to our home rooms. Unfortunately, Autumn and I are in different home rooms. But I texted some friends and I do have some of them in my home room.

The bell rings and all four grades rush to their home rooms. It's really hard to get past the tall 12th graders, but somehow I get to my home room before them.

Okay, since the sneak peak for THHS is done, it's time for the grand finale:

I'm announcing that... I'm starting the Notability Newspaper: The Newspaper that will update everyone on Notability's latest updates, news, and events. I've already started an article about people getting reported on Notability. The reason I want to do this is because everyone's been being reported and every single minute, it's like a disease! Sometimes, it's like you wake up in the morning wondering if you've gotten reported yet. And I don't care if this is going to be the thing that makes me get reported cuz this has to stop. No matter if this acc dies trying to inform people about this situation. But I also realized that I could use this for many other things. So this is the first announcement for the Notability Newspaper. If my first paper goes well, I'll continue with it. Depending on how much time I have and how well it goes, I'll either do it every week or every month. And if possible, I want to be able to kinda make this into a club. Like I have some people interviewing others and some people writing while I edit. But it first has to start. In my last post I wanted to get people who are comfortable with being interviewed for the first article on Notability Reportings. So if you have been reported, please go onto there and put your name on the list.

Thank you so much for all your support,

Eyera
