

Guys do you ever have a fictional character that you used to like, love? Not romantically or anything like that just really liked? But that was over 2-3 years ago and now youre like: "i hate that guy geez he's so annoying how is he the most liked character among the fanbase?" and also its embarasing to even talk about him, and because you used to like him so much he was the only dude you thought about and the only dude you drew so all your 2021 drawings were just him and you want to show your followers what your old art looks like but its JUST. HIM.

i hate austin so much

also some things i should mention before you comment: #1: i guess you could call it a hyperfixation?? i dunno if thats the right word for it #2: i really have no interest in the series he is from anymore, dont ask me about it

