

My dear love,
You are like my hydrogen, my only bond.
When you're near you make my legs turn to liquid
And my voice to ice

Before I knew you I was carbon,
But we turned each other into diamond
Stronger and shinier together

In the vast and endless sky
There are specks of light
There are seeds,
Hidden in the ashes of
The worst forest fires,
You showed me to find the good
Even in the hardest fight

Einstein said all things are relative
In this vast and changing reality
But you are my constant.
My magnetic field,
My guiding force.
Out of every collection of cells
You are my favorite
I thank God, probability, and the forces that be
For bringing you right here with me
