

You'll never know that you have things in common with someone until you actually talk to them and ask questions -Ace