The back story:

Here is a quick summary of the story

A bunch of kids born on the nights of a golden moon including one of the princesses in the Royal family. Scientists did some research on the golden moon. They couldn't find any information on what the golden moon was. Until one day one of the scientists found out some secret information on this moon color and sent it to the king and queen. Nobody knows which scientist did. Not even the king and queen. When the king and queen got the letter they made a rule where whoever was born on that night had to be killed. The princess disappeared the day the king and queen made the rule and has never been seen before.

Roles:

Mythical children: kids 10-16 years old born on the golden moon

Guards (imperial dragons): guards that belong to the Royal family

Royal family: 4 people only! Unless I need more people

Mythical animals: 2 animals combined

Other role: U choose any role I could add to the story (a dragon, Fairies, etc)

Animals:

They are the powers that u have (If that makes sense) and u can turn into them for example if u picked a bird u could fly and do some other things
