

When I was a wee little boy I used to do this. So whenever I was at a public place with multi colored tiles or rugs I would pick a color and jump to that one color without stepping on cracks or the other colors. (My life depended on it, I mean with the powers of Batman and money of Spider-Man I could do anything)