

(Player is fresh out of college)

You are sitting in your apartment room, trying to sleep, and you hear loud barking. You A) get up B) Go be grumpy C) threaten to kill the person who is letting their dog bark at 2 AM D) take the dog and release it in California. Hidden option found! You take the dog and release it in California, but on your flight back home, the dog appears next to you and says: “ I shall curse you for that. All I wanted was a home.” The dog claps his paws and you think that nothing happened. But when you go back home, your husband says: “Who are you? Intruder! Intruder!” And you realize that the curse was that no one would accept you. What do you do? A) live on the streets B) hunt down the dog and beg it to release you C) kill your husband and live in solitude. You hunt down the dog and find him at petsmart. “Please, please, please, release me!” “Hmm...” says the dog. “ You can come to my good wishes... but you have to find me first.” The dog disappeared in a flash of golden light. What do you do? A) say: “ I give up. I’ll never find the dog.” And go live on the streets. B) Chase a little ball of golden light that you see in the air, following it. C) I give you another chance to kill your husband and live in solitude. You follow the ball of light to the San Francisco jail. It goes into an empty cell, like all of them, it was an abandoned jail. You step in, but then the dog quickly flies out and locks you in, but you notice one of the bars are bent and probably easy to pull out. What do you do? A) Take the bent bar and throw it at the wall B) go on a rampage with the pole and destroy the building C) sneak through the gap and go through multiple ESCAPE!!! sequences because there are now new guards, thanks to the dog.