

So uhh, in the story there's this world where humans can turn into dragons (either the Lumina Drake or the Noctura Drake—if you have no clue what I'm talking about, check my kawaii dragon adopts). Each human is given an amulet which will activate their powers when they turn 13. There's a boy who, instead of turning into a normal Lumina Drake or Noctura Drake, turns into a frilled red dragon with two legs and fiery wings. He realises that he needs to hide this from everyone but of course... yeah. He messes up and now there's a manhunt for a red fiery dragon and no one knows it's actually him. He has to find out what's wrong and find a cure before someone else finds him. But on the way, he discovers that he might be the key to fulfilling an ancient prophecy about ending the Dragon War. One fire dragon trying to bring world peace vs the rest of the world. What could go wrong?

(I'm trying! But it's not easy...)

Uhh anyone wanna help me out? Remix if yes LOL