

Rn I'm deleting almost all of my posts because from now on I want to only post literature and poetry because I find myself doing more of that and having more fun writing poems and story's then drawing, I know I have come far as a artist am and good (I guess from what y'all say 😭) but I almost never post art any more because it's getting boring and I don't find joy in it anymore I will draw something for hours and still not be happy with it but with ligature I can go on for hours and not get bored and it turned out fairly good, I understand I will probably lose a lot of followers from this but it's my profile and I would like to chose what content I post, my grime mart series is kinda trash but I wish to work and improve on it and bring more series to this platform in the future. Also with shattered mirrors the actual story of the whole this was a lot better then the art so I feel that it would be better to continue posting story's and poems instead of art, I hope you stay along for the ride and if you do not like this diction it is fully up to you to un follow me.

