

Once upon on a time, Alice Johnson was having a problem with a question that was burning deep in her heart. Alice thought that at her age this question would not bother her so much but it does. Alice has a problem with the Courtship arrangements. She would rather wait on finding her future husband and focus on other things. Like for example, her career and were it was going to lead her. She wanted to be a great story writer for kids and adults. Alice wanted to focus more on writing than worrying about anything else. Yes, one day she would like to find her future husband but not right now. There was one young man that she was interested in but didn't want to start a Courtship with him. His name was George Miller. George was one that really wanted to start a Courtship with Alice. So, George tried to get Alice to let him come over but she refused him to come over to visit with her. She was more focused on writing. George continued to argue with Alice about it, Alice kept telling George that she did like him but she didn't want to start a Courtship with him right now. She wanted to continue writing her stories. George could not understand why she wanted to keep writing her stories and not do a Courtship with him. Alice continued with her writing on this awesome story called "The Little Man" and when she was finished with the story, Alice read it to George. George said that it was a stupid story and that Alice had wasted her time writing the story, that no one will read it anyways. Well of course, this upset and hurt Alice's feelings very bad because she had worked so hard on this story. She tried her best to make it a story worth reading and hopefully would have got a laugh out of it. Alice realized that George was not upset at her for writing at all. That he was more upset at her for not wanting to Courtship with him. Alice thought that was very childish and not right at all. So, she decide to tell him that she didn't want to speak to him again. And that she would never be in a Courthship with someone like him because he is very rude and inconciderate. Alice went on to writing her new story called "The Conflict Of Courtship". This story she could really use her experience toward because of George. Alice really enjoyed writing this story. A few years later, Alice stories "The Little Man" and The Conflict Of Courtship" were published and million copies were made. Everyone was loving the stories and asked her when she was going to write more stories. Alice went on to tell her readers that she is already starting to write two more stories right now. She said also she hopes that everyone will like these as well.

Alice Johnson had published over 10 million stories by the late 1950s. She started to change the way she wrote the stories as well also. Her life had really changed. Alice's mind and imagination went so far that she was writing adults, children and baby stories of all kinds. She wrote funny stories, adventure stories, comedy stories and romance stories. Alice was living the life of her dream. Alice discovered that if she stop letting people tell her what she is doing wrong, then she can get somewhere in life. Alice also learned that you don't always have to do what everyone else does with their life. She also dedicated her life writing and nothing else. Even when the Courtship was over, she still wrote about how the Courtship was not right and she also felt that you should not be forced into. She also wrote a women's book that talked all about the Courtship and explained to the young women that they didn't have to do the Courtship if they didn't want to. She wanted women to also know that they do have an opinion of their own and they should not let anyone make them change the way they feel. Of course, she still kept writing other stories as well. She was very happy about how her life turned out and how she was able to help others have happiness, understanding and confidence. Alice was also happy that she had finally found her spouse, who's name was Chris Adkins. Alice was very happy that she finally found someone who understood the way she felt about the Courtship. She was also happy that she found someone who was understanding about her wanting to be a great writer, "which she is a very great writer", said Chris. Alice really enjoyed Chris being a part of her life. He helped her a lot on when she got stuck on figuring out what to write about. Chris was a very helpful part of her writing. Alice had married Chris in 1954, in Scottsville, Kentucky. They never had any children but they sure did love to read to children at a local hospital for kids. The kids at this children's hospital are very excited to see Alice and Chris Adkins.

Alice and Chris Adkins wanted to do more for the children at the hospital. So they both decided to set outside on their front porch and start writing about what these kids would really like to be able to do. Alice and Chris see that they can help these kids by writing a story that puts the children in the story and makes them feel like they are the real character. Alice and Chris discover that they can do a lot more other than putting the children into the story, they can also have the children draw the pictures to the stories that each child is in. Alice and Chris can help the children by also allowing the children to give them ideas on how the next story should go about that particular child. Alice and Chris had done this for another 15 years before they finally had to stop doing it because of their health. Alice still continued to write stories but she would have someone else take them to the children and read the stories. Alice finally stopped writing at the age of 90. Her husband had past away a few years before she turned 90. Her health was getting really bad and she felt bad because she was unable to write and be able to send the stories to the children and to the publisher. Alice really had touched a lot of lives throughout her life time and still to this day, they say that Alice is still touching them even though she has been gone for almost 20 years. All of Alice's readers are saying that she was one person who they could never forget about and that will never stop reading any of her stories to their children or reading other stories to themselves. Alice's readers also realized that, Alice spoke her mind and did not lie about how she really felt. Alice also respected children at the hospital for the courage that they had. She also respected her husband for standing beside her not behind her. Alice Adkins will always be remebered as the woman who wrote about what she real felt and didn't lie to anyone. She will also be remembered by the children as a speacial lady who wrote for us and added us to her stories. Alice will always be the one writer that touched everyone's heart and soul.
